

NOTICE FOR CITY AND COUNTY.
Judicial sales tax, which all official proceedings of city and county published by authority.

The large circulation in city, county, or state, does not justify.

General Traveling Agents—T. M. Acker and H. H. Park.

HON. R. H. HILL

We are confident that some of the newspapers in the state are doing great injustice. The many sensational reports about Mr. Hill and Mr. Lamar we are satisfied are not true. We do not believe that Mr. Hill is different to Mr. Tilden's eventual success as reported in the preface to his interview in the New York Herald. Mr. Hill is one of our leading statesmen; his whole life proves his devotion to his people, and we cannot imagine any motive for his now betraying the trust and confidence they have reposed in him. Mr. Hill is in a position to know a great many facts of which we are ignorant, and we are satisfied that the future will demonstrate his entire fidelity to the democracy. In justice to him we ask all who are disposed to find fault with him to wait until they are certain he has taken a step they will condemn. We have information that we can rely on that he is entirely in the confidence of the democratic leaders at Washington; in fact, that his suggestions have been followed in the democratic cause by the unanimous vote of those present. We have further information direct from him that any intimation that he favors the inauguration of Governor Hayes, directly or indirectly, or that he is doing or saying anything to embarrass the democratic cause, is false. He will be heard from at the proper time, and until then we suspend any judgment on his course. If he takes a position we do not approve, we will attack him as vigorously as anybody can.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

WICHITA, Dec. 19.—Mr. Ely McClellan, of Gen. Eng's staff, who returned from Brunswick last night, that the state board of health has completed its investigation at Savannah and Brunswick, and that Dr. J. P. Logan will reach Atlanta this morning. Dr. McClellan speaks in high terms of the prompt and cheerful manner in which all classes of citizens, as well as medical men and the officials of these cities aided the members of the board in their investigations into the causes of the late terrible yellow fever epidemic. By this prompt and general co-operation the board has been enabled to close its labors in a much shorter period of time than was expected.

SOME GIVING.

Governor Hampton yesterday made a formal demand on Chamberlain for the possession of the executive department of the state. The democrats are also preparing a memorial to be addressed to Congress covering all the infamies by which the people of that unfortunate state have been cheated and defrauded of their rights. Chamberlain, on his part, formally (if not firmly) refused to deliver to Governor Hampton the seal of the state, and thus matters stand. Meantime, the northern people, whose voices alone can undo these and other complications, pull each other curiously by the coat-tails and inquire if "these southern rebels" are preparing for war. Bah! the sight is sickening. Some civet, good godmother.

We have recently received a very violent letter from a person signing himself "Henry M. Williams" in respect to the present situation. This person does not rate his letter, and he furthermore takes the precaution to mail it on a railroad car. He is of the Coward-Harrell-Jeems-Redpath style, and he does not hesitate to call us villains, assassins and rebels in the most approved Massachusetts manner. When such patriots as Williams put their opinions in black and white we always expect to see them accompanied by an ody by Jack Whittier or an essay by Tom Higginson. With the exception of these omissions, Williams' letter is perfect as showing the temper of the northern people. It is the very essence of hate. We can very well afford to pity such creatures as Williams.

GEN. CROOK seems to have fallen upon and conquered Sitting Bull, at least a week before the latter annihilated Custer. This is praiseworthy, to say the least. It shows that some of our greatest victories are; and it also gives a clue to the manner by which Hayes was elected president. The life of a soldier on the plains, unless he is with John Pope—whose hindquarters never leave the saddle—is a very arduous one.

SITTING BULL, according to our dispatches, seems to be somewhat scattered over the wilds of the western prairies. This is an old dodge. When Sitting Bull seems to be most scattered, he is then most solid. But, in the midst of the menses, where (in the name of all that is warlike) is Gen. J. Pope? Pope is the man who, with his hindquarters in the saddle—our readers will doubtless remember—once conquered George.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE has arrived safely in Florida. Let the country rise up as one man (and two washermen) and congratulate itself. If the train containing this distinguished militiaman had left the track even to get a drink of rosin, the entire country would have gone to wreck.

A word to Mr. James Gordon Benét's ear: "Wouldn't it be nice if Arkansas enabled you to carry out your matrimonial contract? And in the meantime, could you tell which you are for impeachment or not?"

TEXAS declares her readiness to pay off the interest on her bonds. In the meantime we hear nothing of the banner that ought at this moment to be floating in the Georgia breeze.

GENERAL M. C. BUTLER, of South Carolina, was yesterday elected United States senator from South Carolina by a legal quorum of the general assembly of that state.

Governor Grover. PORTLAND, December 19.—Governor Grover left for Washington to day.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 19.—Gov. Houston has placed funds with the national bank of New York with which to pay interest due January 1st on Alabama new bonds by the state, in exchange for the state debt. Holders presenting coupons to the above bank will be paid. The government has also money with which to pay January 1st, the interest due on the new bonds.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE has arrived safely in Florida. Let the country rise up as one man (and two washermen) and congratulate itself. If the train containing this distinguished militiaman had left the track even to get a drink of rosin, the entire country would have gone to wreck.

A word to Mr. James Gordon Benét's ear: "Wouldn't it be nice if Arkansas enabled you to carry out your matrimonial contract? And in the meantime, could you tell which you are for impeachment or not?"

TEXAS declares her readiness to pay off the interest on her bonds. In the meantime we hear nothing of the banner that ought at this moment to be floating in the Georgia breeze.

GENERAL M. C. BUTLER, of South Carolina, was yesterday elected United States senator from South Carolina by a legal quorum of the general assembly of that state.

Governor Grover. PORTLAND, December 19.—Governor Grover left for Washington to day.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his opinion that the Sioux war is over for some years at least, and that the hostiles will come in and surrender before the last of the winter is over.

ALABAMA.

The New Banks—Steaming the Rivers with Fish.

GENERAL T. J. STEWART, in employ of the United States government, last night, placed 30,000 young salmon, from Lake Michigan, in Miles Lake, a highland stand of fight, in which the Indians were driven from the field and scattered over the Yellowstones in the direction of Fort Peck. A large number took refuge at Fort Peck, and were under the care of Gen. Hazen. Gen. Miles expresses his

Atlanta Daily Constitution

Wednesday Morning, Dec. 10, 1876.

SENATOR EDWARDS' PLAN.

Everybody seems to like the plan of Mr. Tilden. The Republicans of the senate are on record as favoring it, the New York World demands it as a joint rule for this one, and Senator Edwards has determined to put it through. The plan is brief this: That the senate of representatives shall assemble in the hall of the house of representatives, and the president of the senate shall be their presiding officer; two tellers shall be appointed on the part of each house, to whom shall be handed, as they are opened by the president of the senate, the certificates of the electoral votes, which certificates shall be opened, presented and acted upon in the alphabetical order of the states; and said tellers having read the same, in the presence of the two houses, shall make a list of the votes as they shall appear from the said certificates; and the votes having been counted, the result of the same shall be delivered to the president of the senate, who shall thereupon announce the state of the vote and the names of the persons, if any, elected, which announcement shall be deemed a sufficient declaration of the persons elected president and vice-president of the United States. It, upon the reading of any such certificate, any question shall arise in regard to counting the same having been settled by Mr. Tilden, two tellers shall be appointed on the part of each house, and said tellers shall be submitted to the president for his decision; and the speaker of the house of representatives shall, in like manner, submit said question to the house of representatives for his decision; and the electoral votes of each state, from any state, to the counting of which objections have been made, shall be rejected, except by the affirmative vote of the two houses. When the two houses have voted, they shall immediately reassemble, and the presiding officer shall then announce the decision of the question submitted. The next section provides that if more than one return shall be received from any state, "all such returns shall be opened by the president of the senate in the presence of the two houses when assembled to count the votes, and that return, and that only, from such state, shall be counted, which the two houses, acting separately, shall decide to be the true and valid return." Right here comes in the difficulty as to reaching a final decision upon the question as to the return to be counted, when disputed returns are sent in. Section 4 provides further for a continuous joint session, "until the electoral votes are all counted and the result declared."

THE POPULAR VOTE.

We have heretofore given figures from democratic sources, and claimed that Mr. Tilden received a majority exceeding a quarter of a million votes. This claim is now conceded by the New York Times, which is as uncompromising as Hayes' paper as the country contains. We give its figures without change of any kind:

STATE	DEM.	REP.	DEM.	REP.	DEM.	REP.
Alabama	63,260	50,511	50,511	43,260	511	43,260	511
Arkansas	20,000	16,000	16,000	15,000	44	15,000	44
Connecticut	26,034	20,000	20,000	17,000	774	17,000	774
Delaware	10,401	8,000	8,000	6,000	1	6,000	1
Florida	9,064	10,780	10,780	10,341	67	10,341	67
Georgia	20,111	19,030	19,030	18,000	1	18,000	1
Indiana	17,027	15,000	15,000	13,000	123	13,000	123
Kentucky	97,49	160,160	160,160	100,000	598	100,000	598
Louisiana	20,000	18,000	18,000	15,000	1	15,000	1
Maine	65,232	49,914	49,914	41,000	1	41,000	1
Maryland	71,363	91,780	91,780	75,000	1	75,000	1
Massachusetts	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
Michigan	10,581	14,000	14,000	9,000	8,9	9,000	8,9
Minnesota	11,253	12,000	12,000	10,000	2,031	10,000	2,031
Mississippi	14,000	16,000	16,000	12,000	1	12,000	1
Missouri	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
Nebraska	10,280	15,000	15,000	12,000	1	12,000	1
New Hampshire	41,242	50,000	50,000	40,000	1	40,000	1
New Jersey	40,000	52,041	52,041	30,000	1	30,000	1
New Mexico	40,000	50,000	50,000	30,000	1	30,000	1
North Carolina	32,000	40,000	40,000	30,000	1	30,000	1
Ohio	16,814	20,000	20,000	15,000	1	15,000	1
Oregon	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
Pennsylvania	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
Rhode Island	10,787	10,712	10,712	10,000	1	10,000	1
South Carolina	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
Texas	44,508	50,000	50,000	40,000	1	40,000	1
Virginia	9,565	15,000	15,000	12,000	1	12,000	1
Washington	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
West Virginia	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
Wyoming	10,000	12,000	12,000	10,000	1	10,000	1
TOTAL	1,029,794	1,200,187	1,200,187	999,948	1,538	999,948	1,538

These sums totally show that Mr. Tilden received 247,461 more votes than Mr. Hayes did; and yet they include the footings of the three returning boards. Louisiana in the table is represented as giving Hayes nearly five thousand majority, whereas she gave Tilden nearly ten thousand. The changes in the votes of Florida and South Carolina are also great curiosities of these results. But taking the Times' own dishonest stand on previous elections, we may assume that Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election; second, an intention to contest the result at the state and in the national election; as a third, the desire to know what the people were doing for him; and a fourth, the desire to ascertain what the result of the election was." Mr. Hayes' choice is the people's choice by an immense majority in the state. The last newspaper reports of Governor Tilden's talk with his friends sum it up as follows: "First, unabated confidence in his election

Christmas Trix

We have in store (Gunningham's Warehouse) the following: One thousand barrels finest hand-picked Michig n, Baldwin's and Spies. Twenty thousand fresh Ruatan Cocoanuts, Two hundred and fifty bunches Yellow Bananas, Thirty to Fifty thousand bright Sweet Oranges (weekly). Also, California Pears, Raisins, Choate English Citron in 7 lb. boxes, Currants, Malaga Grapes in 25 lb. half barrels, Nuts of all kinds, Pigs, Peanuts, Canned Goods and Fancy Groceries. All at the Lowest Cash Prices.

W. F. STOKES & CO.
17 Alabama Street,
Wholesale Fruit and Produce.

The Atlanta Daily Constitution.

COUNTY NOTICES
For Ordinary
DANIEL C. MARKAN
Fife Sheet
A. M. PERINSON
Gent
JAMES D. COLLINS
Post Master
SAM H. HOYLE
Post Master
W. H. HARRIS
Post Master
F. P. WALKER
Post Master
W. M. KILE

Preferred Locals.

SUGAR CREEK PAPER MILLS
WM. MCGAIGE & CO.

Wine, Whisky, Conservatives for everyday use, &c.

Two lines to 10 cents?

Sickness takes place everywhere, and everybody complains of it, so as to get well now;
but sick that object is to get well now;
to say that only persons in the world are likely to get well, is to say that only persons in the world are likely to get well now;
to say that only persons in the world are likely to get well now, is to say that only persons
in the world are likely to get well now;

If you doubt this, go to your Doctor and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular 10 cents. Two doses will cure it.

H. B. RANKIN & LAMAR, house Agents.

20 Whitehall Street, Blinds,
Mats, Montages, etc., at the lowest and the best quality. All orders will be our pleasure to fill.

J. J. ASHLEY & ASSOCIATES
Broad Street, near Bridge,
JEWELLERS & CO.,
20 Decatur Street.

New Advertisements.

Clarks-Chamberlin, Boynton & Co.,
Excelsior Ink Co.

Excelsior, Dr. J. P. Stevens

Gold & Co.,
Wool & Felt, Wood & Felt.

Mary Christmas to all—J. W. L. Brown & Co.

Appleton for Charles—Julia L. Brown

Black Silks, Chamberlin, Boynton & Co.

Lester stock of Jewelry—J. P. Stevens

W. H. Bailey, J. P. Stevens